

Director's Report April 2023

Comment from a patron-

Suggestions, praise, or concerns

from Avery

Date: November 30

Comments: mope critter crates

Trustees By-laws indicate that policy changes and by-law changes need a 3/5 vote. Everything else just need a majority vote. I attached them since it's probably a good idea just to review them each year.

The pavilion structure is complete. We now have to do wiring for internet and security cameras and have the power completed. All this work is going to be completed with ARPA funds. Kate is securing estimates for the wiring as well as having gutters installed.

The silent auction of Wendell's art work is being conducted to raise funds for landscaping. Dennis Silva is going to finish landscaping around the area that was dug up. Again, he is donating his labor. We're going to ask him for a quote for putting in some arborvitae to block some of the sound from the road.

The Friends decided it was going to be too expensive to pull up the carpet in the thrift shop and have the floor refinished. Bob tried to clean the carpet with the machine we own but it did not do a very good job. The Friends hired a company to come and clean the carpet. That was done on the 19th. And all the windows were washed on the same day.

Julie has returned from maternity leave. Emily has started her full-time hours and will be doing more with youth services, such as social media and newsletters geared just to youth services items. Julie is going back to her original work schedule of two days a week so Emily will also be taking on a couple of tasks from Julie. Emily will be responsible for the museum pass program and she is now the official liaison to the Friends.

The new page we choose is Ethan Lang. He's been very active at the library since he was young. He is also on the Teen Advisory Board.